4. Idaho Department of Environmental Quality and MOU with EIPH..... Troy Saffle,
DEQ-Idaho Falls Regional Administrator
 - Review the MOU between EIPH and DEQ to answer any questions and review items that we collaborate and work on behalf of DEQ such as self-surface sewage disposal – large septic tanks, land development, solid waste, and harmful algal blooms.
 - DEQ regulates public drinking water systems solely for this region. Previously EIPH had done this work through an MOU. DEQ inherited about 300 systems from EIPH, primarily food service and small systems.
 - DEQ helps to do audits of septic systems with operating permits (solid waste program), field complaints, and address concern and work towards compliance.
 - Question: Where is the line between DEQ and EIPH with enforcement of septic tanks – DEQ is over large soil systems, anything designed for over 2500 gal/day or more would get a referral package from EIPH and would take on enforcement.
 - Question: Who is responsible for reviewing the growth of smaller systems to determine if they can sustain the growth? – DEQ has N-P Evaluation (Nutrient Pathogen) to determine if a system will or will not impact the ground water that is provided to the County Planning and Zoning.
 - DEQ is willing to attend Planning & Zoning groups and/or County Commissioner meetings to discuss what a septic system looks like and what a septic tank does and how they make a difference.

Prevent. Promote. Protect.

- DEQ is responsible for air quality and permits. EIPH does not have an MOU for air quality.
- Harmful Algal Bloom- DEQ does testing and when levels reach potential harmful levels, request health districts to issue health advisories or cautions. Discussion had on health advisories vs orders.

5. Opioid Settlement Mallory Johnson
- Update on creation of Opioid Advisory Committee. The committee's responsibilities would be to identify the community needs, ensure the committee is not duplicating efforts of other community committees and organizations, help to evaluate community proposals for funds (sub grants). The goal is to have representation from every county and from multiple sectors involved in the opioid crisis. If there are suggestions of community members who should be on committee, contact Mallory.
 - To receive clear plastic box to hold the Naloxone Kits from IHW, contact Mallory.
 - Discussion – need to start with the youth and strengthen youth programs and family support.
 - There is more flexibility with the opioid funds to use funds for preventive programs and treatment with subgrants for our communities.
6. Adolescent Pregnancy Prevention Program Holly Whitworth
- The three curriculums that are being taught as part of the Adolescent Pregnancy Prevention Program:
 1. Making a Difference (geared towards junior highschoolers – healthy relationships and interpersonal relationship skills and accurate information about sexuality).
 2. Reducing the Risk (based in abstinence and interpersonal skills, and delay tactics). Primarily taught in health classes and EIPH health educators only teach what has been approved on by the school board through an MOU.
 3. Families Talking Together (for individual families, providing parents resources about talking with their adolescent).
 - Discussion of rotating the program throughout the district and measuring community impact.
